No, I think it's fine. I do note that, while we're still way, way below any sort of action level, capping operations do seem to be kicking up some dust. We may want to keep this in mind so it does not get worse.

The report looks good. I'd go with it unless Stephanie has any further comments.

Stephanie and Mike,

As requested in our weekly phone calls, attached is a report summarizing activities and progress for the week ending Sunday, November 17. Please review and comment as to its appropriateness for the website.

Also, be advised that the exposed portion of a metal cable that was sticking up in the area south of the No Dredge Zone was cut and removed during last evening's low tide.
